

Rome and _____ fought three _____ Wars over _____ years beginning in _____ bce. The wars established Rome as a world _____ and _____ Carthage's once great North _____ empire. The first Punic War was fought over _____, an _____ in the _____ Sea midway between the two cities. Carthage built a superior _____ to support their _____ sailors. _____ at _____; they won many battles using _____ ships due to their _____ with _____ when they ran out of the _____ and _____. A generation later, a young Carthaginian general _____ and daring journey over the _____. Hannibal _____ Roman army and spent most of the next _____ countryside. Hannibal was forced to leave his army at _____ invaded Carthage. Hannibal was forced _____ soldiers who were no match for Scipio's _____ army. Rome won the battle and the war. Rome _____ their _____ in the _____ Punic War. After a three-year _____, the Romans broke through the city _____ of Carthage. The Carthaginians who were not killed were _____. Rome then _____ Carthage's _____, ensuring that their old nemesis would never again be a _____.

Rome and _____ fought three _____ Wars over _____ years beginning in _____ bce. The wars established Rome as a world _____ and _____ Carthage's once great North _____ empire. The first Punic War was fought over _____, an _____ in the _____ Sea midway between the two cities. Carthage built a superior _____ to support their _____ sailors. Rome had little experience _____ at _____; they won many battles using _____ techniques, but Rome also lost many ships due to their _____ with _____. Carthage lost _____ and the war when they ran out of the _____ and _____ necessary to continue fighting. A generation later, a young Carthaginian general _____ named _____ led his army in a difficult and daring journey over the _____. Hannibal won three bloody _____ with the Roman army and spent most of the next _____ years _____ the _____ countryside. Hannibal was forced to leave his army and return home when a Roman general named _____ invaded Carthage. Hannibal was forced to fight with untrained _____ soldiers who were no match for Scipio's _____ army. Rome won the battle and the war. Rome _____ their _____ in the _____ Punic War. After a three-year _____, the Romans broke through the city _____ of Carthage. The Carthaginians who were not killed were _____. Rome then _____ Carthage's _____, ensuring that their old nemesis would never again be a _____.